Agcaoili wins national transit award

Fairfield, California (Tuesday, September 6, 2016)—On August 29, Fairfield and Suisun Transit operator Virginia Agcaoili received second place in the nationally recognized Driver of the Year award by DriveCam.

Agcaoili beat out all of the operators from across the nation and was second only to an operator in North Carolina with over 30 years of transit driving experience. She is very straightforward when it comes to the secret for her exemplary safe driving record. “I stay calm all day long,” Agcaoili expressed. “I stay focused and try to minimize distractions.”

DriveCam, developed by Lytx®, is a safety monitoring system used by FAST to identify opportunities for operator improvement and to increase overall safety on the road. DriveCam is used on transit systems across the country, including San Francisco Muni, Dallas Area Transit, and Washington DC Metro, to name just a few.

Lytx Senior Client Success Manager Marissa Van Dyke, who spoke highly of all of the FAST/MV Transportation drivers at a recognition ceremony at the Fairfield Transit Center, shared the prestigious group in which Virginia now exists. “She beat out a multitude of agencies across the United States,” praised Van Dyke. “What she has done to earn this honor is no small feat.”

Despite the prestigious award, Agcaoili remains humble. When asked why she embarked on a career in transit almost nine years ago, she smiled and shared, “It is a good job for older people who are looking for a great career. The best part is that I am away from a desk. I am free while I am out driving; free to be with the public, free to be outside.”

Ultimately, Agcaoili points to her training that started her on such an accomplished career path. “I was trained well by a great trainer and I get to demonstrate what I learned every day. I was taught to drive safely, which leads to good customer service.”

Virginia has been an operator for MV Transportation since November 2007. Before coming to MV Transportation, Agcaoili had a notable 17-year career at St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco before continuing as a home-healthcare specialist, which laid a solid foundation for her exceptional customer service skills.
